ABOUT US

PAL Canada was established by members of the Performing Arts Community in Canada to make affordable housing and health care assistance available to older colleagues. It is appropriate, therefore, that the governance of PAL be in the hands of those for whom, and by whom, the organization was designed.

At the same time, PAL Canada recognizes the value of having the support and advice of those "outside" the professional artists' world in the devising and enactment of plans for future care and function. Thus there are different types of membership in the organization, with differing amounts of responsibility and rights. The main type is Individual Member, which provides for full rights and privileges, including rights to vote and hold office.

Individual Member
Individual persons"…working within, or having worked within Canadian-owned Corporations, associations, guilds and unions engaged in the performing arts in Canada…" may become an Individual Member of PAL. Obviously, the person must be interested in "…furthering the objects of PAL…" and be in good standing (pay the required dues). They then have all the rights and privilege of membership, including the right to attend any Special or Annual General Meeting with voice and vote and to be elected to the governing Board of Directors. They may also serve as elected Officers of PAL, following a qualifying period. They will also be placed on the Mailing List to receive newsletters and other communications from the National Office of PAL.
